

Lecturer/Senior Lecturer

Computer Science/Information Technology

The GIMPA School of Technology is looking for an ambitious Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in the field of Computer Science or Information Technology to further strengthen teaching and research in this increasingly important and expanding area of activity. In addition to exhibiting an enthusiasm for teaching and research, the applicant should be able to

1. Demonstrate some experience of publishing in international academic journals, or ability to do so;
2. Teach undergraduate and postgraduate courses in Computer Science/IT, including modules such as Software Engineering, Data Mining and Warehousing, Networks and Telecommunications, Object-Oriented Programming, Database Design, and Systems Analysis and Design
3. Supervise students' research work at undergraduate and postgraduate levels; and
4. Contribute to general administrative and other duties within the School and the GIMPA Community as well as the General Community at large.

It is desirable that your interests should complement those of our faculty who are researching in the areas of Networking and Wireless Technologies, Applied Technology in Business Processes, Information Systems, Information Technology for Development, E-Learning Systems, and E-Government Systems.

A willingness to teach across a range of Computer Science and IT subjects at different levels is important.

This is an excellent opportunity to join a lively and promising group in a School with a growing reputation.

Your application pack should include the following:

1. Application letter
2. Current Curriculum Vitae
3. Copies of all degree transcripts and certificates
4. Statement of teaching philosophy and research interest

The closing date for receipt of applications is Friday 1st June 2012.
